My lawful basis for holding and using your personal information

The GDPR states that I must have a lawful basis for processing your personal data. There are different lawful bases depending on the stage at which I am processing your data. I have explained these below:

If you are in contact with me to consider therapy, I will process your personal data where it is necessary for the performance of our contract.

If you are currently having therapy with me, I will process your personal data where it is necessary for the performance of our contract. The GDPR also makes sure that I look after any sensitive personal information that you may disclose to me appropriately. This type of information is called 'special category personal information'. The lawful basis for me processing any special categories of personal information is that it is for provision of health treatment (in this case counselling) and necessary for a contract with a health professional (in this case, a contract between me and you).

If you have had therapy with me and it has now ended, I will use legitimate interest as my lawful basis for holding your personal information for a period of three years after the therapy has ended. My legitimate interest is if I receive a court order or subpoena, I will be required to release your information.

How I use your information

Initial contact to consider therapy with me

When you contact me with an enquiry about my counselling services I will collect information to help me satisfy your enquiry. This will include your name, your email address and your telephone number. Alternatively, there may be instances where your GP or other health professional may send me your details when making a referral or a parent or trusted individual may give me your details when making an enquiry on your behalf.

If you decide not to proceed I will ensure all your personal data is deleted within 30 days. If you would like me to delete this information sooner, just let me know.

While you are coming for counselling

Rest assured that everything you discuss with me is confidential. That confidentiality will only be broken:

- for supervision
- where there are concerns about actual or potential harm to a young person or vulnerable adult
- where there are concerns about harm to yourself or others
- when information about illegal activity is disclosed
- when information is required to be disclosed in court.

I will always try to speak to you about this first, unless there are safeguarding issues that prevent this.

I will keep a record of your personal details to help your counselling sessions run smoothly. These details are kept securely in a locked filing cabinet, on a locked phone and on a password protected laptop and are not shared with any third party.

I will keep written notes of each session, these are kept in a locked filing cabinet.

For security reasons I do not retain text messages for more than 30 days. If there is relevant information contained in a text message I will transfer this to your written notes.

After counselling has ended

Once counselling has ended your records will be kept for three years from the end of our contact with each other and are then securely destroyed. If you want me to delete your information sooner than this, please tell me.

Your rights

I try to be as open as I can be in terms of giving people access to their personal information. You have a right to ask me to delete your personal information, to limit how I use your personal information, or to stop processing your personal information. You also have a right to ask for a copy of any information that I hold about you and to object to the use of your personal data in some circumstances. You can read more about your rights at ico.org.uk/your-data-matters.

If I do hold information about you I will:

- give you a description of it and where it came from
- tell you why I am holding it, tell you how long I will store your data and how I made this decision
- tell you who it could be disclosed to
- let you have a copy of the information in an intelligible form.

You can also ask me at any time to correct any mistakes there may be in the personal information I hold about you.

To make a request for any personal information I may hold about you, please put the request in writing addressing it to spacecounselling@icloud.com.

If you have any complaint about how I handle your personal data please do not hesitate to get in touch with me by writing or emailing to the contact details given above. I would welcome any suggestions for improving my data protection procedures.

If you want to make a formal complaint about the way I have processed your personal information you can contact the ICO which is the statutory body that oversees data protection law in the UK. For more information go to ico.org.uk/make-a-complaint.

Data security

I take the security of the data I hold about you very seriously and as such I take every effort to make sure it is kept secure by storing it in a locked filing cabinet, a locked phone and a password protected laptop.
